

Teacher narration

- Log in or register to post comments

Type of method

Teaching and learning methods

Type of teaching-learning method

Teacher centered

Short summary

"Narration is a monologue method of oral communication that serves to present a phenomenon, event, process, person, object in a perceptual way.

Description

"Narration is a monologue method of oral communication, which is used to present a phenomenon, event, process, person, object in a perceptual way."

It is used to convey descriptive, specific information. It mobilizes the imagination and emotions of the students.

The challenges, pitfalls of the method and ways to deal with them

Narration should be experiential.

Narration is an emotionally rich method of communication, as a result of which students experience events, phenomena and processes through the mobilization of their imagination, and become part of them. (Lappints, 1997; Russian, 1987; Babansky, 1985: 85–88.)

Advantages of the method

Can be applied for all ages.

"With this method, we primarily communicate the properties that can be perceived by the senses, so the description is quite specific: the information contained in it can be easily perceived by anyone who has an idea of its properties (e.g., shape, color, weight)." (Orosz, 1987: 117)